

I am opposed to the proposal that allows LPFM stations to take priority over current FM translator services if it will leave me without my signal to K-LOVE radio. K-LOVE is the only radio station I listen to in my home and car, which is aired locally on 104.3 FM in Cincinnati, OH. Through K-LOVE I hear inspiring, Christian music, national and world news updates and information about events in our local community that I am interested in. K-LOVE is the one national Christian music station that I can listen to in almost any city or state I travel to. My husband and I are both in sales, so we travel in our car weekly, and with K-LOVE we can stay positive and focused on our faith. We keep a listing of all the stations the broadcast K-LOVE so we can find a new K-LOVE station as we travel and lose our signal. There are too many stations available to us that air music or talk radio programs with offensive language or about offensive subjects. If those stations have the right to air their broadcasts, then K-LOVE should be able to broadcast as well. As a society, we need the option to listen to uplifting, positive, encouraging broadcasts like those on K-LOVE. I've attending several concerts in our community that I became aware of through community announcements on K-LOVE. At these concerts many people are uplifted and inspired, and some even come to know about Jesus for the first time. If K-LOVE were to be displaced by an LPFM broadcaster providing other programming, I would not listen to radio at all, and would be forced to listen to my CDs, which means I would miss news briefings and community announcements that I can receive through K-LOVE. Over the last 3 years, I have even chose to support K-LOVE financially to ensure that it will stay on the air in my community because it is that important to my life. I know from all the K-LOVE bumper stickers that I see on the road that I would not be alone in this point of view.
